EDUCATION/TRAINING PROGRAM INVENTORIES

INTRODUCTION

I. INTRODUCTION

All citizens of the State of Missouri must have the opportunity to achieve their highest potential in order for the state's economy to function at its highest level. Many factors affect these individual opportunities, including the person's education level, geographic location, selection of a career, personal preferences, health of the economy when the individual seeks employment, and many others. With potential labor shortages expected for our state and nation, it is essential that education/training programs provide individuals with the skills needed by the employers of today and of the future. It is also important that individuals examine their career choices thoughtfully so that the careers they choose provide jobs at the completion of education/training with the wage/salaries they require and which allow them to function productively.

The MOICC has designed its Occupational Information System (OIS) to provide the data bases which can be used to examine Missouri's occupational and industrial growth, current occupational training programs, wages, placement rates, licensing requirements, and other occupational characteristics. This information is disseminated through the MOICC Occupational Data Book, the Microcomputer Occupational Information System (MICRO-OIS), the MOICC Education/Training Program Inventories, and the CHOICES career information microcomputer software. If the information in these publications and systems is utilized along with common sense and an understanding of the appropriate uses of the data, the state will be better prepared to equip the workforce of the future with the skills which will be needed.

This publication, the MOICC Occupational Data Book, presents quantitative and analytical occupational information which has been organized to assist in examining the relative balance between occupational demand (jobs) and occupational supply (qualified workers) in Missouri's labor market. The primary purpose of this document is to bring together labor market information data sources which are collected on a recurring basis by various government and education/training agencies and to assist in the interpretation and use of this data. This information may be used as support data in the decision making process of many different user groups: (1) education/training program planners (e.g., to assure that training programs relate to labor market needs), (2) counselors and career decision makers (e.g., to provide information on employment outlook and wages relating to different programs of study), (3) economic development and business/industry staff (e.g., to determine how many persons are being trained in the different geographic areas of the state who would have the skills required by particular industries), and others.

The MOICC Occupational Data Book is designed as a reference document and includes statewide data in several different report formats: two types of supply-demand reports, two types of analysis reports, military discharges reports, wage reports, two types of industry/occupation matrix reports and education/training inventories. These reports are prepared as products of Missouri's Occupational Information System (OIS) with the support of the MOICC member agencies.

This edition of the Data Book includes the occupational employment projections to the year 2000 and the industry/occupation matrix, furnished by the Division of Employment Security (MODES). Chapter III describes the supply, demand, and analysis reports and discusses interpretation issues. All persons planning to use the Data Book should read this section carefully. All the supply, demand, and analysis data bases have been updated since the last Data Book was published; however, all reports are in the same format as the previous edition.

Chapter IV describes the definition and format of the wage reports and Chapter V describes the format and use of the industry/occupation matrix reports. The Education/Training Program Inventories, previously published as a separate companion document to the Data Book, are now included as a section within the Data Book. Chapter VI describes this section.

Many of the data items in this publication are available for substate geographic areas. However, since this document is restricted to statewide summaries, substate reports must be requested from the MOICC office. A micro-computer system, called the MICRO-OIS, is also available for persons who are interested in automated access to the state and substate occupational data bases. The MICRO-OIS is a "user friendly" software system which allows you to sort occupations within a specific geographic area based on employment levels, growth rates, wages, or job openings. The user may also examine supply, demand, and analysis reports for occupations, obtain a list of schools which offer related programs, and find industries which use these skills. Further, the system may be used to examine industries which are growing within a geographic area and determine the occupations which they would customarily use. Persons who are interested in the MICRO-OIS or any of the following substate reports should contact the MOICC office.

II. SUMMARY HIGHLIGHTS

This section uses a series of charts and narrative to summarize information about Missouri's occupational employment outlook and factors which affect this outlook. Figures 1 through 4 summarize Missouri's 1990-2000 occupational employment projections. These projections are prepared by the Occupational Information Unit of the Missouri Division of Employment Security (MODES) and supplemented by the MOICC staff.

Occupational employment data is summarized using seven major categories:

Managerial and Administrative Occupations	- Managerial
Professional, Paraprofessional and Technical	- Professional
Sales and Related Occupations	- Sales
Clerical and Administrative Support	- Clerical
Service Occupations	- Service
Agriculture, Forestry, Fishing	- Agriculture
Production, Operation, Maintenance	- Production

The pie chart in Figure 1 shows that the largest of these seven occupational groups in terms of numbers of employees is Production. This group includes machine operators, truck drivers, heavy equipment operators, automotive and diesel mechanics, assemblers, laborers, and many other related occupations. This group also had the largest number of employees in 1990. The second largest group is Professional occupations followed by Service Occupations and Clerical. However, Figure 2 shows that Professional is the largest group in terms of openings which are expected to be created annually due to growth, 28.0%. Service Occupations are expected to represent 26.8% of all openings created by growth. Service occupations include waiter/waitress, nurses aide, janitor, cosmetologist, protective service, etc.

Figure 3 shows the estimated percentage of job openings created by growth and replacement needs (openings due to turnover are not included). It is estimated that 22.2% of all openings due to growth and replacement will be in Service. Production occupations are second with 22.1% of the total openings annually and Professional occupations are third with 18.5%.

These comparisons of the seven major occupational groups are interesting; however, examining information for detailed occupations is more helpful for certain purposes.

Figure 4 lists Missouri's "high growth" occupations. This chart defines high growth as at least 1.2% increase in employment annually and limits the list to occupations projected to have at least 100 job openings (growth and replacement openings) each year. Occupations which were high growth by this definition but which seem to have an oversupply of trained workers were omitted from this table.

Figure 5 provides a chart showing Missouri's population by age, 1950-2010. This chart graphically illustrates the increase in the population over 25 years of age and the decrease in the "customary" high school and college age population. These changes are important to consider as we are preparing Missouri's labor force for the 21st century.

Figure 6 further illustrates how Missouri's population changes will affect the age of persons in Missouri's labor force (employed and unemployed workers). Most notably, the percentage of the labor force 16 to 24 years and 55 and over is decreasing as the proportion of the workforce 25-55 is increasing.

The following statements provide a few highlights of this year's statewide supply-demand reports appearing in the Data Book.

- . Occupational employment estimates are available for over 723 occupations in Missouri.
- . The average growth rate for occupations in Missouri is 11.3%, 1990-2000 (1.1% per year).
- . The Data Book utilizes 107 clusters to display supply/demand data.
- . Occupational growth and replacement needs are expected to create over 86,000 job openings annually in Missouri.
- . Supply data shows that during school year 1990-91, 84,847, persons completed training programs or received certificates or degrees from Missouri's two and four year colleges/universities, public vocational programs, private/proprietary school programs, JTPA and Job Corps.

III. SUPPLY/DEMAND AND ANALYSIS REPORTS

It is important to understand the conceptual framework of the Missouri Occupational Information System (OIS) as designed, developed, and implemented by the MOICC. Those readers who have not previously used the MOICC Data Book or the OIS should refer to Appendix B to familiarize themselves with OIS concepts.

Since most readers of this document have had prior experience with the OIS, this chapter will briefly describe the supply/demand and analysis reports and discuss interpretation issues.

OVERVIEW

There were two primary purposes for developing the supply/demand and analysis reports which are presented in this document: (1) to bring together data sources on occupational supply and demand which were currently being prepared on a recurring basis by various federal, state, and local agencies and education/training institutions; and (2) to assist occupational data users in interpreting and analyzing the resulting data.

Units-of-analysis or clusters were developed to minimize the difficulties involved in bringing together data from different data sources. The Division of Employment Security develops occupational employment estimates and projections using the Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) coding system. However, the federal reporting requirements for Vocational Education and Higher Education stipulate the use of the Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP). Much of the analysis data utilizes Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT) codes. Keeping the coding assigned in the original data sources, the units-of-analysis organize the data so it can be compared.

The units-of-analysis were used to summarize data on training program completors with the statistics estimating employment needs for occupations related to the training of these completors. Some of the clusters come together very easily while others become very complex. For example, in the Dental Hygienist cluster (0103), the program title and description used by the CIP classification (Dental Hygiene - 17.0102) is quite similar to the terminology used in the employment demand projections (Dental Hygienists - OES matrix code 32908). On the other hand, some of the other clusters are quite complicated since the different coding systems have varying levels of occupational detail.

Readers are encouraged to examine each of the data elements in the unit and question the elements' appropriateness in light of the use the reader intends. For example, certain persons examining cluster 0304 - Carpentry and Other Construction Trades, might want to eliminate consideration of occupations or training programs in the cluster relating to roofers or painters. The units were created as a display method for ease of use. Altering the units as the previous example indicates, is entirely appropriate.

SUPPLY/DEMAND REPORT ELEMENTS

Two sample cluster formats are provided in Exhibits I and II. Exhibit I shows the supply/demand report format utilized for occupations requiring less than a baccalaureate degree or a combination of levels. These are called the "Vocational Education" clusters. Exhibit II shows the supply/demand report format utilized for "Higher Education" clusters. Exhibit III describes the different data elements displayed in the Vocational Education clusters. Data elements 1-14 shown in the Higher Education clusters are the same as described in Exhibit III; however, the program completion categories are listed by degree level. If the reader is not familiar with the various data sources and the definitions used by each, additional assistance may be sought from the data producing agencies or the MOICC staff. A listing of agency addresses and telephone numbers is provided in Appendix A. A glossary of terms is included in Appendix D.

The statewide supply/demand cluster reports are in cluster number sequence following the "SUPPLY/DEMAND REPORTS" tab. The cluster analysis reports follow the supply/demand report for each cluster. There are two analysis report formats. The formats for Report 1 and Report 2 are found in Exhibit IV. Descriptions of report elements for these two reports are found in Exhibit V and VI, respectively. Exhibit VII shows the format for the Military Discharges report and Exhibit VIII describes the data elements used. This report is included for each cluster and follows the cluster analysis reports.

SUPPLY/DEMAND REPORT INTERPRETATION

Appendix B of this document provides a brief discussion of the conceptual framework of an occupational information system and its components. It is important to understand the underlying concepts; however, for those who are more interested in practicality, the following discussion provides comments about interpretation of the data utilized in the supply/demand reports.

"Completion" data was chosen as the most comparable element of supply measurement across training data sources. Obviously, not all training program completors will become available for employment in Missouri after they complete. Some will continue their education, others may decide to move out of state, etc. Vocational education placement data has been incorporated into the OIS to assist in the evaluation of occupational supply. This placement data is collected 180 days after completion of a program and the latest available data is for 1990-91 program completors. Placement data is provided in Analysis Report 2 following the cluster to which it relates. This placement data may be utilized to estimate the number of available supply to the labor market from vocational programs. For example, if the placement data showed that 30% of the completors from a secondary program are continuing their education and not available for employment, users of the data could factor 30% of the secondary completions out of the supply/demand equation. Additional information about employment stability and promotional opportunities experienced by program completors would be helpful. Program planners may be able to examine local sources of data to gain insight into these areas.

The U.S. Department of Education Classification of Instructional Programs, commonly referred to as CIP codes, appear as two digits, a decimal point, and four digits, (e.g., 07.0302). Occupational demand data in the OIS utilizes the five-digit Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) code, (e.g., 32908). 10 CURRENT EMPLOY	Current employment is an estimate developed by the Missouri Division of Employment Security of the statewide occupational employment in the year 1990.
11 PROJECT EMPLOY	Projected employment is an estimate developed by the Missouri Division of Employment Security of the statewide occupational employment in the year 2000.

REPORT ELEMENT	DESCRIPTION
12 AVG GROWTH	Projected average annual growth is an estimate developed by the Missouri Division of Employment Security of the number of jobs that will become open each year due to growth of employment in that occupation. In some occupations there may be a decline in employment which would indicate negative (-) growth.
13 AVG REPLAC	Projected average annual replacement is an estimate developed by the Missouri Division of Employment Security of the number of jobs that will become open each year due to persons withdrawing from the labor force (quits, deaths, and retirements) for that occupation. These figures do not include estimates of openings created by turnover.
14 AVG OPEN	Projected average annual openings is the sum of AVG GROWTH and AVG REPLAC in an occupation. It is an estimate of the number of jobs that will become open each year due to growth and replacement needs.
15 PUBLIC SECOND	Estimated Training Program Completions--Public Secondary is an estimate of the number of secondary students (i.e., high school level) who were reported as completing vocationally funded programs during the 1990-91 school year. This data is classified using CIP codes and is obtained from the Vocational Education Data System (VEDS).
16 PUBLIC POSSEC	Estimated Training Program Completions--Public Postsecondary is the number of certificates and degrees conferred by postsecondary institutions which provided data to the Department of Higher Education for school year 1990-91. CIP codes are utilized to classify higher education programs.
17 PRIVATE POSSEC	Estimated Training Program Completions--Private Postsecondary is the number of postsecondary students which Missouri's private/proprietary schools reported as completing programs. Data appearing in this column reflects completions reported for calendar 1991. Proprietary school data is shown by CIP code.
18 PUBLIC ADULT	Estimated Training Program Completions--Public Adult is the Vocational Education Data System (VEDS) estimate of the completions from adult preparatory vocational education programs. "Adult Preparatory" is defined as a program beyond the secondary level which prepares persons to enter an occupation. The VEDS categories of "Adult Supplemental," "Adult Apprenticeship," and "Adult New Industrial" are not included in this column since most persons enrolled in these programs are already employed.
19 JTPA	Estimated Training Program Completions--JTPA is a count of the number of Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) participants who completed skill training programs during the period July 1, 1990-June 30, 1991 and were not counted by another OIS data source. The MOICC staff utilized data from the JTPA-MIS, VEDS, the Department of Higher Education reporting systems, and personal contacts with the schools to determine the number of completions which should be included in the column. JTPA completions are classified by CIP code.
20 JOB CORPS	Estimated Training Program Completions--Job Corps is an estimate of the number of Missouri Job Corps members who have completed training during the period July 1, 1989-June 30, 1990. Job Corps completions are reported by CIP code in the OIS.
21 TOTAL SUPPLY	Total supply is the sum of all Estimated Training Program Completions from Public Secondary, Public Postsecondary, Private Postsecondary, Public Adult, JTPA, and Job Corps.

MILITARY DISCHARGES REPORT ELEMENTS

REPORT ELEMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1 MAJOR REPORT HEADING	Self-explanatory.
2 GEOGRAPHIC AREA	Each Military Discharges Report will have a geographic area designation. Reports are currently available for the State, St. Louis MSA, Kansas City MSA, and Service Delivery Areas (SDAs).
3 CLUSTER: NUMBER - TITLE	The cluster number and title of each report will correspond to a supply/demand report with the same number and name.
4 REPORT YEAR	Report year indicates the year the report was prepared.
5 NUMBER DISCHARGED	The number of military personnel who separate from the military service each year is provided to the OIS by the Department of Defense. This data is provided by occupational specialty, zip code of address after discharge, military service, and pay grade.
6 EMLISTED GRADES	The pay grade of enlisted personnel being discharged.
7 COMMISSIONED OFFICERS	The Department of Defense is currently unable to provide occupational data on officers who are being discharged.
8 MILITARY OCCUPATION	The title of the primary occupational specialty of personnel being discharged.
9 DISCIPLINE	The Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) code corresponding to the title in item 8.
10 MILITARY SERVICE	The branch of the military in which personnel were enlisted prior to their discharge.
11 TOTAL	The total of all military discharges by occupation and military service.

Note: Data items 5-11 are for the period October 1, 1990 - September 30, 1991.

- . Every effort has been made to eliminate double counting of completions within and between sources of training data. One of the results of this effort is seen in the utilization of certificates and degrees conferred data for programs at the postsecondary level (junior and senior colleges) and the omission of Vocational Education Data System (VEDS) postsecondary data from the supply/demand reports. In theory, it seems that all the VEDS postsecondary completions would be reported as certificates or associate degrees conferred in the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS). Therefore, both IPEDS and VEDS data could not be used due to the overlap. Since the IPEDS count should be a more comprehensive count of all activity at the postsecondary level, it has been used in the supply/demand reports (column heading - Public Possec). Also, to avoid double counting, the "JTPA" estimated completion column only shows completion information for Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) programs not counted in the other OIS data systems. Most JTPA students receive training in an area vocational school, junior college, or a proprietary school and they will be counted in the training completion report submitted by these schools. Only the students who are not counted through the regular data collection programs are shown in the JTPA column of the supply/demand report. This column, therefore, should not be used to determine the extent of JTPA training activity.
- . In designing the units-of-analysis, the coding systems of the various data sources created many problems. Some of the categories used by the Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) demand projections are very broad. In order to create manageable units, an allocation process across certain clusters was utilized. These percentage allocations are not included in this document but are available through the MOICC office.
- . Definitions for the OES occupational codes are included under the tab called "OES DEFINITIONS." These definitions are provided by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in numerical order by code. When referencing an OES definition, use the five digit OES code found in the supply/demand reports. The alphabetical index of the OES titles - Index C - may also be useful in referencing specific occupational definitions.
- . Definitions for CIP program codes are included following the "CIP DEFINITIONS" tab. The MOICC staff developed this listing of all the Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) codes, titles, and definitions as revised by the U.S. Department of Education in 1985. The Alphabetical index of CIP titles - Index D - will be useful in referencing specific program definitions. Note: The CIP revision issued in 1990 was not yet in use when the data was collected for this edition of the Data Book so data is only available under the old codes.
- . The occupational employment projections for the period 1986-2000 which appear in this publication are prepared by the Occupational Information Unit of the Division of Employment Security. A technical description of the OES occupational employment projections methodology is included in Appendix C. These projections do not include estimates of employment for agricultural production (crops, livestock, etc.). Rather than omit these industries and their occupations from the OIS, the MOICC staff prepared estimates of base year employment and annual replacement openings. These estimates were prepared using a combination of local, state, and national data sources, including: Census of Agriculture, Current Population Survey (CPS), Current Employment Statistics (CES), ES-202, U.S. Department of Agriculture data, and Bureau of Economic Analysis data.

- . Studies have shown that projections for larger occupational categories (i.e., larger current employment levels) have historically been more accurate than projections for smaller occupations. These studies, however, have not provided a cut-off figure defining larger and smaller which would assist users in their examination of the projections data.
- . Data found in Analysis Information Report 1 may be difficult to interpret. The Employment Security Automated Report System, ESARS (now called SESA Automated Management System, SAMS) is utilized to obtain data elements 9, 10, 11, and 12 of Analysis Report 1. These elements are defined in Exhibit V. Element 9, UI Claimants (9-30), is a count of the active ES applicants at the end of the fiscal year who were without jobs and who were eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. This figure may be used as a "low" estimate of persons out of work in a specific occupation, i.e., at this point in time (9-30-92), at least this many people with these occupational skills were out of work. The ES Applicant count (Element 10), however, is a cumulative count of ES applicants active during the fiscal year and should be used only as a measure of current (or past) activity, not as a quantitative measure of future supply for a particular occupation. This figure will be inflated by workers who, through seasonal fluctuation in specific industries, become unemployed and then reemployed at a later date. It is also important to note that many of the training program completors counted in the supply/demand reports will have registered as ES applicants and will therefore be counted in the ES Applicant column. Users are, therefore, cautioned not to add the figures for ES applicants and program completors together. Job Bank Openings (Element 11 of the Report) reflects a cumulative count of job openings listed with Job Service offices during fiscal year 1991-92. Research indicates that these openings represent a relatively small share of the total job vacancies. The Ratio of Openings to Applicants (Element 12) may be one of the least useful elements in this report. If all job seekers filed an ES application and if employers listed all job vacancies with ES, then this ratio would provide a much more useful measure of current supply/demand relationships. However, the lack of a comprehensive count of all job vacancies and job seekers causes this ratio to be very difficult to interpret. ESARS/SAMS data captures a larger share of the job applicants than of the job vacancies. In most cases the number of openings will be less than the count of ES applicants, resulting in a ratio of less than 1.00 (one opening for each applicant equals a ratio of 1.00). At this time, we can find no general rules to help assist in the interpretation of this ratio. In the future, however, examining these figures quarterly or for more than a one year period may prove to be a more valuable indicator.

- . Before statements can be made about absolute under or oversupply in particular occupational areas, additional information is needed. It should be emphasized that the material in this document, while reflecting supply and demand conditions, does not give a complete picture of either supply or demand. Geographic and occupational mobility are among the types of information not presented in these reports. A few special studies have been done using national and state data, but nothing has been produced which we can use as a valid measure. Therefore, users of the data in the supply/demand reports are cautioned that, although there is much useful information presented, it can only be suggestive of the relative supply and demand conditions existing for any occupation.
- . In compiling supply, demand and analysis data into the units-of-analysis displayed in this document, a number of pieces of data did not seem to "fit" meaningfully into any of the units. Rather than omit these pieces totally from consideration, they have been organized into "miscellaneous" clusters. Cluster 9994 (see Appendix E) displays counts of Military Discharges which have not been assigned to any supply/demand unit-of-analysis. Cluster 9995 (see Appendix F) displays Higher Education Programs with data for degrees awarded which are not assigned to any unit. Cluster 9996 (see Appendix G) shows occupational employment data which are not assigned to a unit. In some cases an occupation is partially allocated (e.g., 10% or 25%, etc.) and the remainder will appear in cluster 9996. The total will appear only if the occupation was not assigned to any cluster. Cluster 9997 (see Appendix H) provides selected apprenticeship and ESARS data which are not assigned elsewhere. If you find data in the "misc" clusters which you feel should be considered with a specific unit-of-analysis, you may add figures from the "misc" clusters into the unit. However, an understanding of the definitions used for the different classifications is particularly important during this process.

IV. WAGE REPORTS

This section of the Data Book presents a statewide summary of the Area Specific Wage Surveys which were conducted in 1990, 1991, and 1992. These wage surveys of Missouri employers were conducted by the Missouri Division of Employment Security with the support of Job Service Local Office staff, Job Service Employer Committees, local Chambers of Commerce and Economic Development officials.

The Missouri Occupational Information Coordinating Committee and its member agencies provided leadership in initiating this series of wage surveys and have entered the results of these surveys into the automated Wage Information System developed by the MOICC.

With the recent completion of the wage data collection for St. Louis City and County, enough geographic areas have now been surveyed to develop estimates of statewide wage rates. Though not statistically perfect, the wage estimates provided in this section of the Data Book are superior to any wage data which has previously been available for the State of Missouri. Exhibit IX lists the geographic areas summarized within the Wage Information System to prepare these statewide reports.

Most of the employer wage surveys cover all industries within the geographic area and all firms with five or more employees. A sample of employers of various sizes is chosen. No wage data is collected for: Agriculture, Forestry, Fisheries; Mining; Construction; Churches; and Railroads. Education and Government (Public Administration) are only surveyed in selected geographic areas (there is not sufficient coverage to use this data to calculate a statewide average). The survey instrument uses Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) codes. OES occupational definitions are included with the instrument when it is sent to the employer. Wage rates for occupations are summarized across the industries surveyed. There may be substantial variations in duties and pay rates for an occupation in different industries. For example, an administrative services manager in a service industry has vastly different duties and a different pay scale than an administrative services manager in manufacturing. Users may want to refer to the detailed industry data published for an area to become familiar with this type of variation. Each of the areas listed in Exhibit IX has a separate publication which provides wage rates for occupations in different industry groups.

Users interested in local area wage data, wage data interpretation, or data collection methods may contact the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Research and Analysis Section, P.O. Box 59, Jefferson City, Missouri 65104 or the MOICC office.

V. INDUSTRY/OCCUPATION MATRIX REPORTS

Since occupations exist within industries it is important to identify which occupations are related to specific industries. This edition of the Data Book includes two sets of tables which will help in relating industries to occupations (I/O matrix) and occupations to industries (inverse matrix).

Both reports are taken from the base-year (1990) matrix which was developed during the occupational projections process. As illustrated below, employment data by industry and by occupation are laid out across the matrix with industry data as the columns and occupational data as the rows of the matrix.

OCCUPATIONAL EMPLOYMENT STATISTICS INDUSTRY/OCCUPATION MATRIX

	Total All Industries	Industry Code	Industry Code	Industry Code	Industry Code	Industry Code	Industry Code	Industry Code	Industry Code
Total All Occupations
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code
Occupational Code

Industrial employment data used in this matrix is based on the Current Employment Statistics (CES) and the ES-202 data bases for the state. Occupational staffing by industry is estimated by the Occupational Information Unit using the Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) survey data received from a sample of employers. A more detailed description of this process is included in Appendix C.

The most important observation which must be made is that the matrix represents statewide estimates. They are not actual head counts. However, the estimating procedures are developed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and are felt to provide good data for use in occupational program planning at the state level. More caution is needed when using the matrix tables at the substate level.

The tables following the "INDUSTRY/OCCUPATION MATRIX" tab are organized by Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes at the 3-digit level of detail. Each 3-digit industry is listed by code and title and the occupations which represent one percent or more of the employment in the industry are listed by OES code and title. The 1990 employment of the occupation within the industry is given along with the percent the occupation is of the total employment for that industry. Since occupations which are less than one percent of the employment in the industry are not included in this table, the subtotal will assist the user in determining how much was lost by using the one percent cutoff. The reason for setting a one percent cutoff was to reduce the data to a manageable size. For most industries, this table will list the predominant occupations. However, users should remember that if an industry is large, the one percent cutoff will delete occupations with relatively large numbers of employees. For example, the total employment for Trucking, Local and Long Distance, (SIC 421) was 46,216 in 1990. An occupation must have at least 462 employees to appear on the list of occupations under Trucking.

If an industry is growing rapidly in the state, the I/O matrix tables may be used to determine which occupations might also be increasing as a result of this industrial growth. If this growth is also accompanied by a move to "high technology", occupational program planners will be better able to determine which occupational programs will need to be upgraded. On the opposite end of the scale, program planners can also examine the occupations which are predominant in industries with decreasing employment.

The second set of tables developed from the matrix are behind the "OCCUPATION/INDUSTRY MATRIX" tab. This set of tables uses the matrix to choose an occupation and look at the industries which use this occupation. The tables list the OES occupational codes and titles in numerical order. Each occupation is followed by a list of the industries where one percent or more of the employment for the occupation is found. The 1990 employment for the occupation in each industry is listed along with the percent.

The OES codes and titles appearing in the supply/demand reports may be used with this table to locate the industries where specific occupations are found. The alphabetical index of occupations - Index C - may also be helpful in locating occupations of interest within the table.

The Occupational Information Unit has reservations about using the matrix tables for job development. At the substate level, the staffing of an individual employer may be quite different from the statewide staffing pattern. The matrix tables should prove very helpful, however, in promoting a better understanding of the various relationships between industries and occupations.

VI. EDUCATION/TRAINING PROGRAM INVENTORIES

The primary purpose for this section is to provide a resource which catalogs education/training programs in Missouri. Program planners need to know where different programs are being conducted so that the programs they plan are not in competition with other similar programs. Counselors for the different schools, libraries, and social service agencies need to be able to assist their students or clients in locating the occupational programs where they may acquire the skills to succeed in their chosen career. During the MOICC's occupational information needs assessment, significant numbers of persons indicated a need for this type of resource. Prior to the establishment of the MOICC, it had been difficult to keep track of the numerous programs which were available through the different institutions. There was no central source which compiled program information for high schools, area vocational-technical schools, colleges, proprietary schools, etc. The MOICC has become the central source for education/training program information and has been preparing education inventories since 1980.

This inventory lists education/training programs found in the following types of institution: area vocational-technical schools, two and four year public and private colleges or universities, private/proprietary schools, theological institutions, hospital based schools, Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) skill training institutions and Job Corps. School year 1990-91 or calendar year 1991 data bases were provided to the MOICC by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, the Department of Higher Education, the Division of Job Development and Training, and the U.S. Department of Labor. The MOICC staff combined these data bases, deleted programs appearing in more than one data base and collected data from schools which were missing from the data bases.

The statewide inventories are in numerical order by Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) code following the "EDUCATION/TRAINING PROGRAM INVENTORIES" tab. An alphabetical index of CIP titles and codes is provided in Index D (behind the "INDEX" tab). A list of CIP codes and definitions (in numerical code order) is provided behind the "CIP DEFINITIONS" tab. During 1990-91 schools were not yet reporting under the new 1990 CIP coding structure so all codes in the inventory are pre-1990.

The CIP coding system and the ways different agencies use it may be difficult for some users. First, it is incorrect to assume that all programs with the same code are exactly the same. The various data systems assign codes in different ways and though programs may have similar occupational objectives, they may differ in format and content. Some programs will be more specific than the assigned code and title would indicate. Users may note these differences if a school's catalog is compared to the inventory listing. For example, the VEDS reporting system sometimes loses specific program detail (e.g., legal secretary) by giving programs a more general code and title (e.g., secretary). Second, in some cases an occupational program may have different skill levels which utilize different codes. For example, CIP 15.0501 is Air Conditioning, Heating, and Refrigeration Technology. This program should include more technical skills than CIP 47.0201 which is Heating, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration Mechanics. Users should understand, however, that the technology code may be assigned to some programs which are very similar in content to programs with the mechanic code. Similar problems may be encountered with Automotive Technology (15.0803) and Automotive Mechanics (47.0604); Drafting and Design Technology (15.0202) and Drafting (48.0101); Welding Technology (15.0610) and Welding, Brazing, and Soldering (48.0508).

Area Vocational Technical Schools (AVTSs) are listed with all the vocational programs within their school districts. However, in some districts Agricultural Production, Typing, or other programs may be conducted at a high school within the district rather than at the AVTS. The MOICC Occupational Information System accommodates only a school district code not a building code to identify where programs are offered. Similarly, programs offered at a college or university do not show building locations. The address and telephone information given is usually the admissions office or a generic school address.

The format of these inventories is slightly different from the format used in previous years. This new format provides more information in a more self explanatory form. The program levels (associate degree, etc.) are the same except a new category NA (not available) was added. The original data source did not show a special level for these programs. All program levels are defined at the end of the inventory tables.

The inventories appearing in this section list education/training programs offered across the state of Missouri. Inventories by county, by Service Delivery Area (SDA), and by metropolitan area have also been prepared and are available upon request. All these program inventories are available in the Microcomputer Occupational Information System (MICRO-OIS) which makes this information available for automated search and retrieval.

In order to obtain a "Certification of Registration" as a Professional Engineer (PE) in Missouri, persons must make application to the Missouri Board for Architects, Professional Engineers, and Land Surveyors, P.O. Box 184, 3605 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, (314) 751-0047.

Licensing requirements include: Applicants must (1) be at least 21 years of age; (2) hold a degree in engineering from an accredited school of engineering (schools accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology); (3) have 4 years of satisfactory engineering experience after acquiring the degree and with a master's degree in engineering only 3 years is required; (4) be of good moral character; and (5) pass the two-part examination. Part 1 is usually taken in the senior year or upon completions of the engineering degree program. Part 2 is taken after the required experience is completed. The Board utilizes examinations prepared by the National Council of Examiners for Engineers and Surveyors. Most states use this same exam. The exam includes different questions for the following engineering specialities: Aeronautical/Aerospace, Agricultural, Chemical, Civil, Electrical, Fire Protection, Industrial, Manufacturing, Mechanical, Metallurgical Mining/Mineral, Petroleum, Sanitary, Structural. Persons taking the examination respond to questions relating to their specialty or any combination of disciplines.

To obtain a list of accredited engineering programs, contact: Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, 345 East 47th Street, New York, New York 10017, (212) 644-8013.

During 1992, the Board licensed 523 professional engineers. There were 13,758 professional engineers holding licenses as of December 31, 1992.

Due to changes in the data collection system for postsecondary education in Missouri, the OIS no longer receives completion statistics from real estate schools. The supply figures shown in the report are counts of the number of persons receiving certificates or degrees from real estate programs in junior or senior colleges. These figures do not reflect the supply of trained persons entering the real estate field.

Since Missouri law requires that real estate agents and brokers be licensed in Missouri, additional information is available from Missouri's licensing agency: the Missouri Real Estate Commission, P.O. Box 1339, 3605 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, (314) 751-2628. The Commission estimates that as of January 1992, 24,584 salespersons held real estate salesperson's licenses (4,929 of these were inactive) and approximately 17,369 persons held broker's licenses (1,465 of these were inactive). Licenses may be held by persons who are not currently employed in the occupation or who are not currently living in the state.

Due to changes in the data collection system for postsecondary education in Missouri, the OIS does not receive completion statistics for schools with barbering programs.

Missouri law requires that barbers must be licensed in order to practice in the state. Missouri's licensing agency is the Missouri State Board of Barber Examiners, P.O. Box 1335, 3605 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, (314) 751-0805. In order to qualify for the licensure examination, persons must: (1) be at least 17 years of age, (2) have completed at least 1,000 hours in a period of not less than six months in an accredited program, (3) be of good moral character, and (4) be free from contagious or infectious diseases. Statistics collected by the Board show that during fiscal year 1992, 129 persons passed the barbering exam. There were 3,916 barbers licensed and in good standing and there were 1,560 barber shops in operation. It is important to note that licenses may be held by persons who are not currently employed in this occupation or who are not currently living in the state.

Due to changes in the data collection system for postsecondary education in Missouri, the OIS no longer receives completion statistics from cosmetology schools. The supply figures shown in this report are counts of the number of persons passing the cosmetology examination during calendar year 1991. The Missouri State Board of Cosmetology has provided these figures by school so that this data could be compiled by type of institution and geographic location with the OIS.

Missouri law requires that cosmetologists hairdressers, and manicurists be licensed. Missouri's licensing agency is the Missouri State Board of Cosmetology, P.O. Box 1062, 3605 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, (314) 751-1052. In order to qualify for the licensing examination, persons must: (1) be at least 17 years of age, (2) have an eighth grade diploma, (3) have completed a program of study approved by the Board, (4) be of good moral character, and (5) be free from contagious or infectious diseases. The examination is written as well as practical and is given six times per year.

As of December 1, 1992, the Board reported that there were 45,056 persons with active CA (cosmetology/hairdressing/manicuring) licenses, 89 licensed cosmetology schools and 10,194 licensed beauty shops.

Missouri law requires that persons wishing to practice as a psychologist in the state must be licensed. Missouri's licensing agency is the State Committee of Psychologists, P.O. Box 153, 3605 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, (314) 751-0099.

Applicants for licensure must meet the following requirements: (1) be at least 21 years of age; (2) be of good moral character; (3) have received a doctoral degree in psychology with at least one year of post-degree satisfactory professional experience in the general field of psychology or have received a master's degree in psychology with at least three years of post-degree satisfactory professional experience or be currently licensed as a psychologist by another state with substantially equal requirements; and (4) have passed all examinations required by the Committee.

The Missouri Center for Health Statistics reports that in 1992 there were 1,462 psychologists licensed in Missouri and 1,173 were actively practicing in Missouri. Since psychologists who are employed exclusively by state government are not required to be licensed in Missouri, they are not included in the previous figures. Additional state, county, and regional data is provided in the Center's Missouri Health Manpower publication.

Missouri law requires that architects must be licensed to practice in the state. Missouri's licensing agency is the Missouri Board for Architects, Professional Engineers, and Land Surveyors, P.O. Box 184, 3605 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, (314) 751-0047.

In order to qualify for licensure in Missouri, applicants must meet the following requirements: (1) be at least 21 years of age; (2) hold a degree in architecture from an accredited school (schools listed by the National Architectural Accrediting Board); (3) have 3 years of satisfactory architectural experience after acquiring the degree; (4) be of good moral character; and (5) pass the nine-part written and practical examination. Applicants must complete their education and experience requirements before applying for the examination. Applicants may also qualify with 12 years of satisfactory architectural education and experience combined. The exam is given annually in June.

During 1992, the Board licensed 191 architects. There were 3,788 architects holding licenses as of December 31, 1992. Licenses may be held, however, by persons who are not currently employed in this occupation or who are not currently living in the state.

OIS CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

OVERVIEW

The Missouri Occupational Information Coordinating Committee (MOICC) designed, developed, and implemented Missouri's Occupational Information System (OIS) to respond to the information needs of three major user groups:

- . Vocational education and employment/training program planners and administrators,
- . Economic development and business/industry personnel,
- . Youth and adults in the career exploration and decision-making process and the counselors and placement personnel assisting them.

The purpose of Missouri's OIS is to bring together all the occupational data sources for Missouri and to format reports and design subsystems to respond to the information needs of OIS users.

OCCUPATIONAL DEMAND COMPONENT

Conceptual Introduction

The occupational demand component contains information on the number of job opportunities in specific occupations, within a specific geographic area, over a given period of time. Job opportunities may be affected by several factors, including:

- . Current occupational employment,
- . Expansion or reduction in the economy over time,

FIGURE A

OIS INFORMATION BASE AND THE TWO MAJOR USES OF OCCUPATIONAL INFORMATION

OCCUPATIONAL INFORMATION BASE

- . Replacement of workers leaving the labor force over time because of death, retirement, or other reasons,
- . Persons changing occupations,
- . Migration by individuals into or out of the specific geographic area being analyzed,
- . Technological changes,
- . Plant openings and closings.

Purpose of the Occupational Demand Component in the Missouri OIS

The purpose of the occupational demand component in the Missouri OIS is to provide estimates by occupation for:

- . Current and projected employment,
- . Projected job openings,
- . Current vacancies.

Sources of Information for the Occupational Demand Component in Missouri

The major sources of existing occupational demand information in Missouri are provided through the Division of Employment Security. The Occupational Information Unit prepares estimates of current and projected occupational employment. The number of job openings which will be created due to economic growth and withdrawals from the labor force are also estimated. Occupational employment projections are prepared for the state, St. Louis MSA, Kansas City MSA, and Service Delivery Areas 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11. Since SDAs 6, 13, 14, and 15 are all within the St. Louis MSA, separate occupational estimates are not prepared for these areas. SDAs 3 and 12 are within the Kansas City MSA. The OES statewide occupational projections appear as demand data elements in the statewide OIS supply/demand reports. OIS supply/demand reports are also prepared for MSAs and SDAs using the substate employment estimates previously described.

The Employment Security Automated Reporting System, ESARS (now called SESA Automated Management System, SAMS) was chosen to provide current job vacancy information for the OIS. ESARS/SAMS provides an annual cumulative listing of openings submitted by employers to local Job Service offices. It should be noted that: (1) Job Service openings may represent only a portion of the total actual openings in an occupation depending on how many employers list their openings with the local Job Service office, (2) the same job opening may appear more than once in high turnover jobs, and (3) the usefulness of the data for analyzing supply/demand relationships will vary with the occupation and geographic area (i.e., more job orders may be received for specific occupations in certain geographic locations). The latter limitation is minimized by utilizing ESARS/SAMS statewide summary data in the cluster analysis. Data elements from ESARS/SAMS appear in the OIS Analysis Report 1 which accompanies the supply/demand reports.

OCCUPATIONAL SUPPLY COMPONENT

Conceptual Introduction

The occupational supply component contains information on the number of individuals who are working, seeking work, or may be seeking work in specific occupations, within a specific geographic area, over a given period of time. The current supply of workers for an occupation equals the number of individuals who are qualified for and seeking work in that occupation. The projected supply of workers in an occupation is equal to the current occupational supply plus new entrants to the labor force who seek and/or obtain work in the occupation, less the labor force separations from that occupation. The important conceptual aspects of occupational supply relate to the flow of workers into and out of various occupations. Potential workers who might enter an occupation include:

- . Completers and leavers from education programs,
- . Unemployed individuals who are available for and seeking work in an occupation,
- . Migrants into a labor market,
- . Individuals changing occupations,
- . New entrants and re-entrants to the labor force.

Workers cease to be employed in various occupations for several reasons, including:

- . Death or retirement,
- . Transfers to different occupations,
- . Migration out of a labor market,
- . Personal (family or health) reasons.

The occupational supply component of the OIS focuses principally on the number of individuals who are available for, qualified for, and seeking employment in specific occupational fields.

Purpose of the Occupational Supply Component in the Missouri OIS

The purpose of the occupational supply component in the Missouri OIS is to estimate the number of individuals who will be available to work in various occupations at specific points in time. More specifically, the occupational supply component must focus on the number of available workers who have skills in specific occupations. To estimate the available supply of workers for occupations for given time periods, it is necessary to have information regarding current employment, current and potential availables by occupational field.

Sources of Information for the Occupational Supply Component in Missouri

Figure B lists sources of Missouri, Kansas, and Illinois occupational supply data sources. It is important to note that these training program data sources use one coding structure, Classification of Instructional Programs - CIP, and occupational demand data uses another coding structure, Occupational Employment Statistics - OES. This lack of consistency across supply data sources and demand data sources is resolved through a clustering process. The clustering process groups similar education/training programs and occupational fields together for the purpose of analyzing occupational supply/demand relationships. The clustering process is described in more detail in the supply/demand interface component description. The occupational supply component of the OIS integrates completion information from a variety of data sources into a single operational model of occupational supply in Missouri.

OCCUPATIONAL SUPPLY COMPONENT DATA SOURCES

DATA SOURCES	DESCRIPTION
Dept. of Elementary and Secondary Education, Div. of Vocational and Adult Education--VEDS	The Vocational Education Data System (VEDS) provides information on enrollments and completions in vocationally funded programs, as well as follow-up information on vocational program completors. This data is available by CIP code.
Dept. of Higher Education--IPEDS	The Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) provides information on the number of certificates and degrees conferred by two and four year colleges. This data is collected by CIP code.
Private/Proprietary Post-Secondary Career School Certification Process	The Department of Higher Education is responsible for a certification process which provides information on completions from vocational programs reported by private and proprietary career schools which have been operational one year or more.
Dept. of Elementary and Secondary Education, Div. of Vocational Rehabilitation--MIS	This system provides enrollment and placement information on vocational rehabilitation clients. Because the training institutions used by V.R. report their enrollment and completion data to other reporting systems, using this system's data would result in duplicate counting. Therefore, data from this system is not incorporated into the MOIS.
Job Training Partnership Act--MIS	The Division of Job Development and Training and Missouri's 15 SDAs provide data on enrollment, completion, and follow-up for training funded through JTPA. In order to avoid duplicate counts, the MOICC staff compares JTPA-MIS reports against the other education data bases and includes only JTPA completion which have not already been counted in one of the other systems.
Employment and Training Administration, U.S. Dept. of Labor--Job Corps	There are three Job Corps Centers in Missouri. The centers are assigned participants from anywhere in the nation; therefore, their data system is designed to provide data by the student's home of residence. The OIS receives a statewide report for all Missouri Job Corps participants.
Dept. of Defense, Manpower Data Center	The Department of Defense Manpower Data Center provides Missouri a computer tape of military personnel who separated from the military services. This tape is provided annually by primary occupational specialty (DODOCC), zip code of address after discharge, military service, and pay grade.
Kansas Dept. of Education, Div. of Vocational Education	Enrollment and completion data are provided by CIP code for public institutions offering vocational programs within the Kansas portion of the Kansas City MSA.
Kansas Board of Regents	Statistics on certificates and degrees awarded are provided by CIP code for two and four year colleges and universities within the Kansas City MSA.
Illinois State Board of Education Dept. of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education--VEDS	Enrollment and completion data are provided by CIP code for public and private institutions offering vocational programs within the Illinois portion of the St. Louis MSA.
Illinois Board of Higher Education	Statistics on certificates and degrees awarded are provided by CIP code for two and four year colleges and universities within the Illinois portion of the St. Louis MSA.

All sources listed in Figure B are not currently being used in the occupational supply/demand reports. Certain data sources such as Vocational Rehabilitation and Postsecondary VEDS were not used due to duplication of completion data with other sources of information.

In the supply/demand reports, training program completions are summarized at the state level. Supply/demand reports are also available for each Service Delivery Area (SDA) and each metropolitan area in Missouri.

It should be noted that program completion figures used in the supply/demand reports do not represent actual supply, but rather potential supply. Persons completing a training program may choose to enter an unrelated occupation, continue their education, enter the military, or otherwise be unavailable to work in that occupation. Follow-up information provides an indication of the magnitude of program completors who actually seek or gain employment in a related occupation. When follow-up data is available, it is included in the cluster analysis.

Military personnel who are being discharged and who have a Missouri address after discharge are counted in a separate report by occupational specialty (DODOCC). These persons are potential new entrants or re-entrants to the state and local labor market.

OCCUPATIONAL CHARACTERISTICS COMPONENT

Conceptual Introduction

The occupational characteristics component contains information regarding the requirements for working in specific occupations and the general description of the occupations. Characteristics of occupations describe the nature of the occupation in terms of its job task requirements. Occupational characteristics information might also include other unique considerations that influence an individual to enter a particular occupational field. Some characteristics may help explain the supply/demand situation for a particular occupation. Examples of occupational characteristics information include:

- . Occupational duties, tasks, and materials/equipment used;
- . Working conditions and likely work settings;
- . Physical requirements of occupations;

- . Education and training requirements of occupations;
- . Career ladders and advancement opportunities;
- . Licensing and registration requirements for various occupational fields;
- . Geographic or industrial concentration of the occupation;
- . Major employers for various occupational fields;
- . Wages, fringe benefits, and non-monetary compensation;
- . Entry methods or hiring points;
- . Hours required;
- . Employment outlook.

Characteristics of occupations basically can be described as information that explains what the occupation is, what it will be like to work in the occupation, and how one can prepare for and enter the occupation.

Purpose of the Occupational Characteristics Component in the Missouri OIS

There are two basic purposes of an occupational characteristics component. The primary purpose is to provide the necessary descriptions and associated information regarding various occupations to persons making career decisions. This information must be appropriate both for students pursuing educational opportunities that lead to occupational fields and for individuals desiring to change careers after being in the labor market. The second purpose of the occupational characteristics component is to provide qualitative information about occupations for use in the interpretation of supply/demand data. The occupational characteristics information that is relevant for this purpose include aspects of occupations that explain why supply/demand balances or imbalances might exist (e.g., wages, working conditions, etc.).

Sources of Information for the Occupational Characteristics Component in Missouri

The occupational characteristics information necessary for this component is currently available through the following data sources and systems:

- . Missouri CHOICES
- . Missouri Vital Information for Education and Work (MoVIEW)
- . Missouri Center for Health Statistics
- . Missouri Professional Registration Boards and Commissions
- . Occupational Outlook Handbook (OOH)
- . Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT)
- . Wage Surveys
- . Apprenticeship Information

COMPLEMENTARY INFORMATION COMPONENT

Conceptual Introduction

The complementary information component contains information that is not occupation-specific but that is necessary to support the use and analysis of occupational information. There are three general categories of complementary information available to the State of Missouri.

- . Education and Training Auxiliary Information -- This information has a variety of applications for use in planning training programs and the career counseling of students and/or other client groups and would include listings of education/training institutions and the programs they offer, financial assistance information, etc.

- . Demographic and Economic Conditions -- As with other special areas of study, occupational information is best understood within the full context of the trends of the labor force. Types of data found in this category would include population, in-migration, out-migration, employment, unemployment, etc.
- . Other Information would include a variety of information sources aside from those covered in the above two categories which might prove valuable in the analysis of occupational information.

Purpose of the Complementary Information Component in the Missouri OIS

The complementary information component provides information that is necessary to support the use and analysis of occupational information. Education and Training Auxiliary information may assist vocational education and job training planners to determine where a particular program is offered and how the program is funded. Demographic and Economic Conditions information may influence education planners to adjust programs that train for occupations that are particularly sensitive to changes in demographic or economic conditions. Other sources of non-occupational information may be important to the analysis and use of information about certain occupations.

Sources of Information for the Complementary Information Component in Missouri

Sources of complementary information in Missouri are available from various state or local agencies or private organizations. Examples of agencies/organizations that compile and/or disseminate complementary information include:

- . Division of Employment Security
- . Department of Economic Development
- . Educational Institutions
- . Department of Higher Education
- . Department of Elementary and Secondary Education

- . Regional Commerce and Growth Association (RCGA)
- . Mid-America Regional Council (MARC)
- . Private Industry Councils (PICS)

Education/Training Program Inventories are provided as a product of the OIS. Inventories are provided for the State, Service Delivery Areas (SDAs), metropolitan areas, and counties.

Industry employment data, provided by the Division of Employment Security, has been developed for use with the OIS and allows users to examine industries which are growing or declining in their geographic areas.

SUPPLY/DEMAND INTERFACE COMPONENT

Conceptual Introduction

The development of occupational supply/demand information involves bringing together a number of different sources of information to be interfaced to provide occupational supply/demand relationships. The interface must be based upon a consistent rationale for four basic issue areas. These issue areas are Geographic, Classification, Time Period, and Measurement.

- . Geographic Interface -- The various sources of occupational supply and demand information have different geographic coverage. As an example, supply information is generally provided by individual reporting institutions which must be summed for a specific area, whereas employment data is provided for the state or metropolitan areas. The supply/demand data must be organized so that similar areas are covered.
- . Classification Interface -- Existing sources of occupational information use different classification systems to describe occupations and training programs. The rationale for relating the supply and demand information from the various data sources in Missouri has been focused through the unit-of-analysis called a "cluster."

- . Time Period Interface -- The various sources of information do not have uniform time period coverages. The sources may cover different periods of the year (e.g., school year, fiscal year, etc.) or may have different publication frequency--weekly, monthly, quarterly, annually, biannually, etc. Time period interface must be addressed to ensure supply/demand data comparability.
- . Measurement Interface -- The varied data sources will have both obvious and subtle differences in how occupational supply and demand is measured. For example, enrollment, completion, and placement data represent alternative measures of supply from training programs.

Purpose of the Supply/Demand Interface Component in the Missouri OIS

The supply/demand interface component provides the logic for the supply/demand relationship in the OIS. It provides the structure and procedures for organizing and processing the supply, demand, and analysis data, and is implemented in the form of computer programs that receive, store, process, and produce occupational supply/demand and analysis reports. The MOICC staff and staff from the MOICC member agencies determine which education/training programs will be matched with which occupations in the OIS units-of-analysis.

The use of the "unit-of-analysis" structure is necessary in an OIS because of the difference in the classification systems used to organize data on training programs and occupational employment. These classification systems must be related in order to obtain supply and demand data relationships. Only occasionally will one program be related to one occupation. A typical example of classification relationships is illustrated in the following figure:

The combination of programs A and B and occupations 1-5 into a cluster allows an unduplicated count of supply (completions for programs A and B) and demand (employment and openings for occupations 1-5) to be developed for the cluster.

Relationships between training programs and occupations are determined through the use of a national crosswalk of various classification systems. The crosswalk is reviewed by Missouri educational and labor market specialists to tailor the contents to programs and occupations specific to Missouri.

To assist in locating occupations and programs of interest in the Data Book, indexes are provided by program, occupation, cluster name, and cluster number.

SUPPLY/DEMAND ANALYSIS COMPONENT

Conceptual Introduction

The analysis of supply/demand information is potentially the most difficult and extensive component of the OIS. The supply/demand component should analyze occupational supply and demand information from several points of view.

- . Technical Parameters of Supply/Demand Interface -- The supply/demand interface should include or exclude certain data due to a variety of processing, interfacing, and other issues. These technical parameters need to be provided to present the full supply/demand picture.
- . Analysis Using Other Quantitative Supply/Demand Indicators -- Certain information that cannot be processed directly through the supply/demand interface may contain data that could be analyzed from a quantitative perspective. Such quantitative analysis may include supplemental supply/demand data or proxies such as analysis of ESARS/SAMS occupational data and additional sources of employment data.

Purpose of the Supply/Demand Analysis Component in the Missouri OIS

The supply/demand analysis component of the OIS has two important functions. First, it has the capability of providing analysis information which can be processed through the supply/demand interface component. Second, the analysis component provides the capability to analyze, interpret, and explain the supply/demand relationships in narrative form. The analysis is a crucial feature for ensuring that the OIS will serve to support the decision-making process of vocational education planners, career decision makers, and others.

Sources of Information for the Supply/Demand Analysis Component in Missouri

The analysis component is presented as automated reports for each cluster (where data is available). The analysis will contain the following information:

- . Apprenticeship -- Apprentices are counted as employed in the OES demand data, however, in most occupations they are not identified separately. Therefore, in order that apprentices may be considered during the analysis of the supply/demand relationship, the OIS Analysis Report 1 includes a count of the number of apprentices in registered apprenticeship programs and the number completing their apprenticeship annually.
- . ESARS/SAMS -- The Employment Security automated system provides indicators of job vacancies, job applicants, and applicants eligible for unemployment insurance. Ratios of openings to applicants are also provided. These data items are included in OIS Analysis Report 1.
- . Wages -- The average wage for Job Bank openings is provided in the OIS Analysis Report 1. A separate section of the Data Book provides additional wage data collected by the Division of Employment Security through surveys of employers.
- . Placement -- The Vocational Education Data System (VEDS) placement data for persons completing occupational programs is provided, where appropriate in OIS Analysis Report 2.

Figure C provides a description of selected data sources available for use in the Analysis Component. Apprenticeship and ESARS/SAMS are summarized for the state in the Data Book. Additional OIS reports are available for these data with summaries for metropolitan areas and for Service Delivery Areas (SDAs). The OIS also has VEDS placement data summarized for the state, metropolitan areas, and SDAs.

Statewide wage data by OES code is provided as a section in the Data Book following the "WAGE REPORTS" tab. See Chapter IV for a more complete description.

OCCUPATIONAL ANALYSIS REPORT DATA SOURCES

DATA SOURCES	DESCRIPTION
Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U.S. Dept. of Labor	The Missouri BAT office provides information on the number of persons "in training" and "completing" registered apprenticeship programs in Missouri.
ESARS/SAMS	The Employment Security automated system provides annual cumulative counts of Job Service local office applicants and job openings by 9-digit DOT code. Each applicant is only counted once in the statewide summary, even though they may have applied several times during the year. The number of applicants who were eligible UI claimants at the end of the fiscal year is also provided.
Div. of Employment Security--ES-203	The ES-203 report contains selected characteristics of the insured unemployed in the State. Previous occupational attachment data are available at the one-digit DOT code level of detail, however, not all applicants will have a DOT code assignment.
Div. of Employment Security--Job Bank	The Job Bank records a variety of information on job orders and applicants. Job order information is summarized in ESARS/SAMS. In order to obtain wage information by occupation from the Job Bank data base, the MOICC has funded the preparation of automated programs to retrieve and calculate average, mean, median, and mode wages, and high and low wage.

APPENDIX C

INDUSTRIAL AND OCCUPATIONAL PROJECTIONS METHODS

The Missouri Division of Employment Security has operated the Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) program since 1970. The functions of this program have changed during this time; currently, federal funding supports only the surveying of a statewide sample of employers to collect occupational staffing information. Funding provided by the Missouri Training and Employment Council and the Division of Employment Security supported development of the 1990-2000 occupational projections for Missouri, the St. Louis and Kansas City MSAs, and 1986-2000 for outstate SDAs.

The projections are of employment, based on historically observed industry and occupational employment. Employment is the outcome of the interaction between the supply of and demand for labor. Thus, the historical and the projected figures represent the influence of supply factors as well as demand. The fact that employment has dropped in a particular industry, occupation, or area could reflect relative unavailability of workers or nonmarket restrictions placed on wages or other employment conditions (factors which affect supply) just as easily as it could reflect reduced demand for that type of labor. Similarly, increased availability of workers in an occupation could lead to increased employment in that occupation, just as would an increase in demand.

The projections are based on historical employment trends, rather than on information concerning supply and demand separately, since these are not directly observable. There is an implicit assumption that relative supply and demand conditions will continue or will change in a predictable fashion.

The process of making occupational projections depends on two main ingredients: industry employment and occupational employment within each industry. Industry employment data are the richer of the two kinds, in that monthly employment data by industry and area are generally available. The occupational employment data, which are primarily derived from the Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) program, give employment by occupation within each industry at a point in time. These OES surveys are statewide in scope and are taken on a three year cycle, so each industry (except agriculture) is surveyed once in a three year period.

Since time series data of industry employment are available, it is this type of data which essentially drives the projections. Historical trends of employment by industry are used to produce projected values of employment by industry for the projected year. The industry staffing patterns are overlaid on the industry base-year and projected-year employment data, an industry at a time, to yield industry/occupation employment matrices. To reflect the fact that not only industry employment but also occupational staffing patterns within an industry can vary with time, occupational change factors are applied before producing the final projected-year matrix. These factors are based on historical national data and changes expected by occupational experts on the Bureau of Labor Statistics national office staff.

Simply stated, the steps utilized to develop occupational projections for a specific geographic area are as follows:

- 1) Create historical employment data series for each industry (3-digit SIC) using Current Employment Statistics (CES) and ES-202 employment data;
- 2) Examine factors affecting the future of each industry and apply modeling techniques to develop employment projections for each industry;
- 3) Utilize the OES staffing information collected for each industry to develop an industry/-occupation matrix for the base year (the last year of the historical series - "the jumping off year");
- 4) Sum across all columns of this matrix to calculate the total estimated employment by occupation for the base year;
- 5) Apply factors to estimate changes in staffing of industries in the projection year and develop the projected-year matrix;
- 6) Sum across all columns of the projected-year matrix to calculate the total projected employment by occupation;
- 7) Develop base year and projected year estimates for self-employed persons by occupation, using national estimating factors;
- 8) Calculate the annual average job openings due to growth by subtracting the base year employment from the projected employment and dividing by the number of intervening years;
- 9) Calculate annual average separations by occupation using national separation rates;
- 10) Sum the annual average openings due to growth and openings due to separation to obtain total annual average job openings unless there is negative growth. If there is negative growth the openings due to separation become the total openings figure.

The staff of the Occupational Information Unit felt that use of statewide staffing patterns would not be appropriate for use in developing SDA projections; therefore, they utilized a technique called OASIS,

Occupational Area-Specific Information System, to determine the staffing patterns to be used. This automated technique analyzes the state staffing pattern sample to determine if it has a sufficient return of survey data from employers within the SDA to be representative of that SDA. If not, the area's industry is analyzed by size of firm to develop a statewide size-specific pattern. If neither test results in an "appropriate" pattern, a state or national pattern is used. The resulting occupational staffing patterns were overlaid onto the industry employment for each SDA and a base year matrix was developed. The remaining steps to develop the 2000 projections are similar to steps 5 through 10 on the previous page.

The SDA employment projections should be used with even more caution than the state level estimates since new techniques have been used in their development and some of the occupational employment numbers are very small. Users should remember that there are increased chances of error as numbers become smaller. Trends gleaned from this data should be combined with other indicators and local knowledge of the area before program planning decisions are made.

Employment growth or decline - A change in the level of employment over a given time span, either in the past or projected into the future. Entry level - A term usually associated with those jobs or occupations for which employers hire workers, either with little or no previous work experience or with relatively minimum training or education. ## APPENDIX D (cont.)

growth in employment and the need to replace workers who die, retire, or leave employment for other reasons.

Labor force - All persons enumerated as in the non-institutional population between 16 and 65 years of age who are either employed or meet the definition of unemployed, including members of the Armed Forces.

Labor market area - Consists of a central city or cities, and the surrounding territory within normal commuting distance. It typically includes one or more counties which represent an integrated geographic unit within which workers may travel to work or change jobs without changing their place of residence. The area takes the name of its central city or cities. The boundaries depend primarily on economic and geographic factors, and not on political jurisdictions. In some parts of the country the boundaries cross state lines. Area boundaries are subject to change when significant changes in economic and population trends and commuting patterns occur.

Labor supply - May refer to the current situation or to expectations for the future. Current labor supply is defined as the number of persons working or available for work, i.e., the employed plus the unemployed. Projected labor supply refers to the number of persons expected to be available for work in the future.

Labor turnover - As applied to the total labor force for an occupation, industry, or area, refers to the amount of movement of workers into and out of
